

“I always thought my husband and I would enjoy our golden years together. So when Melvin began losing his fight with pancreatic cancer, I was faced with a reality that I was completely unprepared for. I knew I had Everest as a part of my insurance program, so I gave them a call. It was entirely new territory for me.

I didn't know the first thing about planning a funeral, but my Everest advisor guided me every step of the way.

With her help, the big decisions were out of the way prior to Melvin's passing. She helped us give him a beautiful service, without overspending. I also received an expedited life insurance payment through my insurance company's partnership with Everest, just one week after his funeral, which was another huge burden lifted. Without those worries, I was able to focus entirely on Melvin and on my family. Considering his death was one of the most difficult things I've been through, Everest was a phenomenal experience.”
